

MAYE YOU A COUGH

that prevents you getting to sleep, with a tickling sensation in the throat—a cough which is staying too long, about which you are beginning to be anxious?

WILSON'S WILD CHERRY

will stop it. It is a lung tonic, acting directly on the mucuous membrane of the lung and thereby ensuring a permanent cure. A teaspoonful in water sipped leisurely stops a fit of coughing at once. Two teaspoonfuls at bedtime taken similarly ensures sound refreshing sleep.

Price 1/-, 2/- and 3/6 per Bottle.

Sympathy.

We regret to chronicle the death of one of the oldest members of the M'Quiston Memorial Church, in the person of Mrs. Rachel Ewing, which took place at her residence, 105, Barcelona Terrace, Madrid Street, Mount-pottinger, on Saturday, 16th November.

Mrs. Ewing was a daughter of the late Mr. James Murray, flax merchant, Ann Street, and first saw the light of day 83 years ago in Gloucester Street, which was then a residential locality. Mrs. Ewing's husband, the late Mr. Samuel Ewing, predeceased her by 22 years. Of a family of four sons and five daughters she is survived by two sons and three daughters, nine grandchildren, and two great grandchildren, perhaps the best known of her grandchildren, in church and Sunday school circles a few years back, was Miss Ena Burton, now Mrs. Stanley, of Winnipeg. A memorable incident in connection with the old Iron Church days is that the second marriage celebrated there 25 years ago was that of Mrs. Reid, daughter of Mrs. Ewing; her husband, Captain Reid, A.O.C., Woolwich Military College, was present to pay the last tribute of respect to his venerable mother-in-law.

Mrs. Ewing's religion was not of the conventional type, she was one of the old school, a Puritan by conviction and by disposition; expediency and compromise were unknown factors in regard to her religious views. She was beloved by her children, by whom she was tended and nursed in her last illness with a constancy and tenderness and untiring devotion seldom witnessed.

A pathetic incident in connection with Mrs. Ewing's death is that her only unmarried daughter and companion and nurse, Miss Minnie H. Ewing, succumbed to an attack of pneumonia on the day of her mother's funeral, and was laid to rest in the same grave as her mother in the City Cemetery, on Thursday, 21st November.

We tender our sincere sympathy to her sorrowing daughters—Mrs. Pennycook, Mrs. Reid, and Mrs. Burton—and all relatives; and especially to her son, Mr. A. M. Ewing, whose loving care for his mother and sister was his one paramount thought.

Mr. Ewing is the respected and efficient secretary of Euston St. Mission.

"Strong in the Lord of hosts,
And in His mighty power;
Who in the strength of Jesus trusts
Is more than conqueror."

Albert Carse.—We tender our deep sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Carse, 223, Woodstock Road, on the loss of their second son, Albert. He was a dutiful and loving son who gave great promise of a successful career. A boy of deep spiritual instincts, he was most exemplary in all his work, both in the Boys' Brigade, the Sunday School, and in his attendance on the means of grace.

Much sympathy will also be felt for Mr. and Mrs. John Pollen, 90, Portallo Street, through the death of their son, Edward Pollen, from pneumonia, in the Naval Hospital, Plymouth. He had just left his home four weeks on the day of his death. He was a most promising youth, and although not quite of military age, he willingly offered himself for the service of his King and country.

Much sympathy will also be felt for Mr. and Mrs. James Hodgen, 118, Castlereagh Street, upon the loss of their third son, Private James Watson M'Donald Hodgen, Royal Inniskilling Fusiliers, who was killed in action on October 20. Upon the opening of the war this gallant soldier immediately joined the colours, and after a period of training went to the Dardanelles with the 1st Batt. R. Inniskillings in 1915, taking part in the "Incomparable 29th Division." He was wounded during the operations on the Gallipoli Peninsula, and was sent to Egypt, where dysentery supervened. Later he was invalided home. After his recovery he went to France in the summer of 1916, and was through the famous Battle of the Somme. Later he was wounded at Givenchy. He continued to serve on the Western Front until last spring, when he suffered very severely from gas poisoning, being for weeks unable to either see or speak. Upon recovery he was invalided home again. He returned to France on September 30, 1918, and was killed in action on October 20. He belonged to the machine-gun section. He was a very gallant soldier, a faithful, loving son, and a very quiet and estimable young man. We deeply mourn his loss, and tender his sorrowing family and friends our heartfelt sympathy. His brother, L/Cpl. John Hodgen, 2nd Batt. Royal Inniskilling Fusiliers, one of the "Old Contemptibles," was severely wounded in the early stages of the war in one of his arms, and after a year in hospital was honourably discharged the service.

COMING EVENTS.

Jumble Sale.

Canton Street Jumble Sale will be held in the Mission Hall on Saturday, December 21, at 3 o'clock. We ask for a like liberal support as in former years, and thank all who have helped us in the past for their unfailing support.

Xmas Festival.

Canton Street Christmas Festival will be held as usual on Wednesday, December 25, and we ask our patrons for their usual help in providing cakes, etc., for the children. To many of the children this is their only taste of what Christmas means.

Watchnight Service.

December 31st, at 11 o'clock.
